Campus Walking Scavenger Hunt clues

1. This was the first building built on campus. It originally rose 3½ stories in the central section and 2½ stories in the wings and was topped by a slate-covered mansard roof. The unique central stairway is housed in a five-story atrium.

2. Here you will find a confocal microscope and five climate-controlled greenhouses—providing valuable tools for research and discovery, helping our faculty stay on the cusp of leading developments in the field of biology. The L-shaped configuration might help lead you to its name.

3. The preservation of this building is important to the Syracuse University Physics Department. Several renovations have been completed over the last two decades to uphold the building’s legacy and to restore its focus as a center for learning. One can do some galaxy searching and stargazing from here.

4. A variety of events are hosted here. At the time construction was completed, it was ranked the 5th largest of its kind in the United States and the first of its kind in the Northeast. This is not the place to go if you are looking for peace and quiet.

5. This is a home for all faiths, a place for all people. September 2015 marked the celebration of 85 years as the centerpiece of campus. It is definitely the People’s Place.

6. This is not only one of the most recognized buildings on the University campus, but was placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1974. This is home to the first tower chimes in Syracuse.

7. This represents an unprecedented commitment by Syracuse University to cultivate and lead innovative academic, government, and community collaborations positioned to empower those who have served in defense of the nation. The final product is expected in spring 2020.

8. It took more than a month to move the 10 million items in collection from the previous location to this new one. It did not open until tests were conducted to determine the stress capacity of the structure. Special Collections Research Center and Syracuse University Archives are housed here.

9. This building served as the hub for women’s intercollegiate athletics until 1982, when they merged with the men’s program and moved to Manley Field House. At one point, there were six bowling alleys here.